

ART

From winter shows to museum presentations to gallery exhibits, January is the artful month in New York City!

for art's sake

01.05

Before it closes (last few days: Jan. 5-10), make sure to catch Picasso & Jacqueline: The Evolution of Style. Works done by Picasso during his last two decades are on display at the Pace Gallery. Jacqueline Roque, the muse-turned-wife, is captured through paintings such as "Woman in Armchair (Jacqueline)" (left, 1962), sculptures, ceramics and more. 32 E. 57th St., 212.421.3292

The annual Winter Antiques Show is upon us, delivering its usual dazzling pieces, such as this aquamarine and diamond platinum necklace by Olga Tritt, ca. 1935. Jan. 23-Feb. 1, Park Avenue Armory, 67th St. and Park Ave., winterantiquesshow.com. "View of the Temple Neptune" (left, ca. 1777-78), by Giovanni Battista Piranesi, is one of a series of drawings on loan from Sir John Soane's Museum in London to the Morgan Library thru May 17. 225 Madison Ave., 212.685.0008
