Join us as we head to the Caribbean and a place that was first discovered in 1492. While Sir John Soane didn’t travel to the new world, he certainly would have known about it as the Americas were much discussed in the British press during the many decades of Soane’s life. For a period in 1762 to 1763, Havana and parts of Cuba were controlled by Great Britain as British forces besieged and captured it during the Seven Years’ War. With the Treaty of Paris, the island was returned to Kingdom of Spain (Charles III) as part of the negotiations with Britain’s George III, who agreed to cede Havana and Manila for Florida and other lands. The island experienced amazing growth and influence following the return to the Spanish realm.

Members of Sir John Soane’s Museum Foundation and friends will enjoy an extraordinary trip which is reserved for up to 30 discerning travelers who are looking for a special journey exploring architecture, art and the decorative arts.

Havana: An Insider’s View of Architecture and the Arts
Saturday, 21 February to Thursday, 26 February 2015

Joining our group will be HERMES MALLEA, a Cuban American architect, designer and author of the book Great Houses of Havana, A Century of Cuban Style (The Monacelli Press, 2011). This is a SOANE TRAVELS exclusive with Mr. Mallea accompanying a group to Cuba. Hermes Mallea, AIA, is an architect and a partner in the New York City based firm M(Group) with Carey Maloney. They have been friends and admirers of the Soane for many years. Mr. Mallea studied at the University of Miami’s School of Architecture and Columbia University’s graduate school of Historic Preservation and is a member of the American Institute of Architects (AIA). A longtime collector of vintage Cuban photographs, Mr. Mallea has traveled to Cuba frequently to do research for his first book, and is now completing work on his second book on Cuba. He also has lectured in Cuba on issues of historic preservation. In October 2014, his latest book will be published: Escape: The Heyday of Caribbean Glamour.
SOANE TRAVELS · February 2015

FEBRUARY 21 · SATURDAY · MIAMI to HAVANA

Meet at Miami International Airport. Our departure by regularly-scheduled chartered flight from Miami (MIA) is in the morning and arriving Havana by lunch-time. Flight check-in time typically very early (sometimes as early as 6am due to required departure procedures).

*Flight and schedule is subject to change.

OVERNIGHT IN MIAMI: Given the early flight check-in time, it is recommended that travelers book a stay at the hotel in the Central Terminal at Miami International Airport (Miami International Airport Hotel) or other nearby hotel property.

After arrival at the José Martí Airport, drive through various neighborhoods of Havana as an overview to our explorations ahead, this will likely include a stop at Revolution Square and a drive along the Malecón. We will enjoy lunch in a paladar, a privately owned restaurant often located in part of an owner’s home.

Then check-in at Hotel Saratoga - our home for five-nights. The Saratoga is considered one of the top hotels in the city. It is located in the heart of the city by the Capitolio building and is easy walking to Old Havana and various sites.

In the early evening, attend an introductory lecture by Hermes Mallea based on his book to give an understanding of Havana family life from 1860 to 1960 providing insight into how fashionable neighbors shifted and housing types evolved. We will then enjoy a cocktail reception prior to a welcome dinner.

FEBRUARY 22 · SUNDAY · HAVANA

This morning we join an architectural historian for a lecture and morning walking tour of Old Havana focusing on the four main squares: the Plaza de Armas, Plaza de San Francisco de Asís, Plaza Vieja and Plaza de la Catedral. Conclude with lunch at a restaurant near the cathedral.

Afternoon visits are arranged in the homes and studios of some of Havana’s leading artists, where there may be an opportunity to purchase art such as paintings and drawings.

In the early evening, we have been invited to a private after-hours tour and reception at the Ceramics Museum.

This will be followed by dinner at a paladar, a restaurant in part of a private home that operates with the special permission of the Cuban government.
FEBRUARY 23 · MONDAY · HAVANA

We start our morning with a brief lecture by Hermes Mallea featuring historic and contemporary images of Art Deco to mid 20th Century architecture which we will be exploring this morning.

Our touring starts at the Bacardi Building (1930), a masterpiece of the Art Deco style, a pre-cursor to the mid 20th century architecture featured today. We'll see highlights of achievement before and after the revolution – and will feature several brief stops both in the morning and afternoon. Stops may include the Lopez Serrano Building (1932), Havana’s first skyscraper and said to be modeled after Rockefeller Center and the Empire State Building; the Catalina Lasa House (1927) with its interiors by Rene Lalique; and we may enjoy a drink on the terrace of the Nacional Hotel – the hotel was originally designed by McKim Mead and White and opened in 1930. An amazing mid-century hotel is the Riviera (1957), a true time piece of the international style and largely unchanged.

After lunch, we drive out of the city - seeing real Cuban street life – heading southwards to the small, hilltop town of San Francisco de Paula for a visit to Finca La Vigía (Lookout Farm), the house where Ernest Hemingway lived for 20 years. This house museum is unique in that one views the rooms through open windows from the terraces which surround. On the grounds, you can see his famous fishing boat Pilar, and can climb the tower to his study. You can read more at:  www.fincafoundation.org  We hope to conclude our excursion with a brief visit to the village of Cojimar, the setting for “The Old Man and the Sea.”

Pending confirmation, we may be able to visit the residence of the British Ambassador in Havana. This important house is located in Vedado on the Paseo, one of the most fashionable avenues in its day. The mansion with Palladian styling, was built for Pablo Gonzalez de Mendoza, and has a most dramatic of indoor swimming pools.

This evening we plan to go to the Ludwig Foundation for the Arts* where we will have a special presentation on the work of the Ludwig Foundation and Cuban art. The Ludwig Foundation Director will host a cocktail reception and buffet dinner on the penthouse terrace – and this will be a great chance to discuss the arts with invited local artists and guests.

For information on the American Friends of the Ludwig Foundation of Cuba, please visit:  www.aflfc.org  *Invitation to be confirmed.
FEBRUARY 24 · TUESDAY · HAVANA

We start our morning with a brief lecture on contemporary Cuba reality providing insight into life and living on this island nation.

Continue to the Museum of Decorative Arts (pictured right) to view this extraordinary collection now housed in a former mansion in the Vedado district – the house was completed in 1927 in the neo-classical style for the Gomez-Mena family.

Lunch in a nearby paladar.

This afternoon, we visit the complex of the National Arts Schools and specifically ISA, Instituto Superior de Arte, where we will join a professor (who is an artist) for a guided visit through the studios and work spaces of Cuba’s leading art school - and we’ll be viewing the students’ artwork. The complex of five schools was designed by Vittorio Garatti, Roberto Gottardi (Italians) and Ricardo Porro (Cuban) on the former private country club golf course in western suburb of Cubanacan.

Two items of interest related to ISA –

There is a great film that came out in 2011 featuring interviews with the architects entitled “Unfinished Spaces,” this is available sometimes on PBS - see www.unfinishedspaces.rom for information on showings - also available via Netflix.

Of further interest, renown British architect Lord Norman Foster and his firm worked on a feasibility study for a possible renovation and reworking of the never completed school of ballet. See New York Times articles online dated June 21, 2012 and November 16, 2012.

Continue for a late afternoon visit to the residence (pending confirmation) of the Swiss Ambassador, a home completed in 1958 as designed by Richard Neutra and gardens by Roberto Burle Marx.

Dinner and the evening are at leisure. We are happy to assist with suggestions for restaurants or making reservations. This is also a great night to potentially take in some Cuban music at one of the many clubs in town.
FEBRUARY 25 · WEDNESDAY · HAVANA

Attend an informal morning rehearsal of the Contemporary Dance Company of Cuba at the Teatro Nacional (pictured right), located adjacent to the Plaza de la Revolución.

Then visit the Colón Cemetery (pictured below), whose many monuments commemorate Cuban heroes, statesmen and novelists. With such ornate tombstones and structures, this is sometimes called the largest sculpture park in Cuba.

Lunch is on your own today with several optional visits for the afternoon to explore further architecture and the arts. You may also wish to head to the Feria de Artesania (the crafts market) located in a former port warehouse Almacenes de San Jose where you can speak with crafts people. Or stroll past the mix of Art Deco and Colonial-style buildings on Calle Obispo, the main shopping street, sharing with locals stories about daily life.

In the early evening, we have been invited to a private concert presented by Ars Longa at the former 18th century church, Iglesia de Paula. This is an amazing treat to listen to a wonderful classical ensemble.

Our farewell dinner will be at the home and studio of renowned Cuban artist Damián Aquiles. The large house in the Vedado neighborhood is filled with Damián’s art and that of his friends. Enjoy sitting in the lush walled-garden of the house - a welcome respite to the city around - and savor a buffet dinner of local specialities.

FEBRUARY 26 · THURSDAY · HAVANA to MIAMI

This morning we check-out of the hotel, with luggage boarded on the bus. We enjoy a curatorial tour of the National Museum of Fine Arts. Early lunch to follow, prior to heading to the airport for the flight to Miami. We are currently scheduled for a flight departing Havana in the late afternoon and arriving Miami (MIA) at 5pm.

*Flight and schedule is subject to change.

NOTE: Upon arrival and clearance at Miami Int'l Airport - this can take up to two hours - travelers then will need to collect their luggage and proceed to their airline counter for check-in for flights home. There is no advance check-in available in Havana. Please remember that you need to check-in two hours prior to your flight from Miami, so do not book flights for departure till after 9pm that night.
